

Luxury Walking - Ireland

Ireland has it all – dry limestone pavements, rolling hills, sandy beaches, rugged mountains, rocky coastline, beautiful lakes, fast flowing rivers, peat-bog moorlands, all on the West Coast of Ireland. The famed Irish weather, it is possible to have five seasons in one day. What you often have is tranquility, solitude, isolation until you arrive at an Irish pub for lunch; you will always find a very warm welcome.

Walking in Ireland

A guide will welcome you at your first class hotel and escort you on whatever type of walk you would like; it might be easy or a strenuous climb for however long a time. It might include archaeology, wildlife, mountain climbing.

These walks with a local and knowledgeable guide are based on your hotel and might even cover part of the distance to your next hotel; with luggage carried by a support vehicle. These are some of the hotels from which you can take extensive walks:
